Confessions of a Paperholic

Pretty boxes, beautiful handmade papers, glitter, fun stamps and cardstocks in every color of the rainbow! It's a recipe for the perfect invitation, party favor and gift—best of all... you handmade it!

For me, the hobby has become simply—an obsession. I can't seem to have enough "flower" stamps, words, animals, birthday cakes... you name it the list goes on. I have to have it in my possession whether or not I use it.

The same goes for printed cardstocks. I just want it.. to tell you the truth, I hoard it. I hate the fact that I will one day be cutting it up into little pieces, so I save even the smallest scraps.

I know, I'm sick. But collecting these little wood images, beautiful ribbons, and heavy cardstocks makes me happy. When I would come home from a hard day at work (usually chasing bad guys or digging into court records to find someone guilty), my relaxation and destressing would come in the form of stamping and petting my cardstocks.

With the ups and downs of the economy, I would like to offer you a fun way to spend your furlough Fridays and welcome you into my little world of paper addiction.

We will still have make and takes the first Tuesday, second Saturday and last Fridays of each month... plus we'll add a free make and take the first and third Fridays of each month until the state of California figures out a way to get out of this deficit. We'll even offer 10% off your purchase during these special days.

This is the perfect time for brides, new moms, and anyone thinking about making fun and creative projects to see the results of instant gratification! Best of all... it's always FREE!

Coming up with fun cards and boxes of treats is a great way to showcase your talent to your friends and family, take it from me... I had way too much fun, I left my career as a tv journalist to share my addictive hobby with you!
